Leitrim, Ireland F91 H2TW Merenda Understood from the outset the complexity of the London Dock residential project, through close collaborative partnerships with designers, supply chain and particularly the knowledge of the intricacies of using dyed wood veneer, matching and laying grain.

From our first interaction with Frank, through several stages of sampling, costing, and right through the supply of the multitude of components during the project, Merenda took a hands on interactive approach through their organisation, standing as an excellent Supply Chain Partner.

We received all samples, costings and lead-times promptly, allowing us to deliver an excellent service to our client and in turn allowing them to rest easy in the knowledge that the supply chain was understanding of the needs of the project in both quality and delivery performance.

Throughout a large project such as this, there are inevitably times that the various partners need to pull together to ensure lead-times and quality is maintained. Merenda never shirked their responsibilities and were always looking for solutions to any unforeseen issues that arose.

Throughout the Project Merenda worked with us, to achieve our goals.
